

Broadcaster and presenter of BBC Radio London's multi-faith magazine programme Inspirit and jazz singer Jumoke Fashola (left), Expressions curator Theresa Roberts (centre) and artist Sarah Güsten-Marr. (PHOTOS: GRAHAM READING)

Expressions of Güsten-Marr.

Sarah Güsten-Marr's bold, bright Larder created quite a stir.

What's Theresa Roberts been up to? Lots, as you can well imagine.

Roberts, in her capacity as founder of Art Jamaica, recently curated Expressions, her first exhibition for another minority notably Liberian artist Sarah Güsten-Marr at the Gallery GM.

The exclusive view, held in Cork St Mayfair, as well as the exhibition were a critical and commercial triumph.

Actress, singer and model Josephine Platt (left) and attorney-at-law and socialite Nancy Del'Olio.

Princess Tamara Bourbon (left) and British model and TV personality Catalina Guirado-Cheadle

Out in support of the arts and the Expressions exhibition were (from left): Julia McGoldrick; sought-after film producer in the entertainment industry Nicholas 'Pikki' Fearon; and Simon Webbe of the band BLUE.

Exhibition curator Theresa Roberts and strategic communications consultant Mischa Mills

Simon Webbe of the band BLUE

Theresa Roberts and artist Sarah Güsten-Marr.

About The Artist

Sarah Güsten-Marr was born in Liberia, West Africa. An orphan, she was adopted by German parents and was brought up with her older sisters in West Africa, Germany, USA and Italy. Educated to become a citizen of the world, Güsten-Marr is fluent in three languages.

After school years in Washington, DC and Rome, her studies continued at the Academia di Moda, Rome and at the Instituto Europea di Design di Roma. She then went on to Winchester School Of Art in Great Britain and graduated from the American College of Applied Arts in London.

Güsten-Marr returned to the UK from Boston, Massachusetts, where she had her art studio at the North Shore.

Senior Associate Editor - Lifestyle & Social Content: NMW
Art Director: Rorie Atkinson
Contributors: Omar Tomlinson, Jarmila Jackson & Curt Cawley
Layouts: Eldorad McCallum, Latoya Latibeaudiere

Welcome Home!

Experience your Jamaica, Beaches® -style, at any one of our spectacular Luxury Included® Resorts

Your every wish included: the most luxurious family suites, some with private butler service • Anytime 24-hour gourmet dining at up to 7 specialty restaurants • Premium brand drinks • Unlimited land & water sports • The Caribbean Adventure with Sesame Street® • Pirates Island Waterpark • Nightly entertainment

*Rate is per person, per night in $USD, based on double occupancy in select room categories at select resorts. Children classified as under 16 years of age. Valid on new bookings for stays through December 31, 2013. Terms, conditions and blackout dates apply. Rates are subject to changes and restrictions. Beaches® is a registered trademark and is represented worldwide by Unique Vacations, Inc.

From only $163 per person, per night
 Children only $35 per night

Call 1-888-BEACHES