

Monique Lofters (left) and Keisha Castello, two of the participating artists.

Celebrating the launch are (from left) Amanda Rigler, curator, Edwoud Lucie-Smith, international art critic and historian, Theresa Roberts, promoter of the exhibition, and Pat Ramsay, board member of the Jamaica National Gallery. The exhibition is part of the New Hall Art Collection at Murray Edwards College and features paintings and sculptures of 13 Jamaican female artists. The exhibition will be on show until December.